MEMORANDUM FOR:

The Honorable Henry A. Kissinger
Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs

Some of our people have been looking into what Arab-Israeli wars have cost the Soviets, with the attached results. The paper is divided into a brief section of the cost of the current war, followed by a discussion of the cost of past wars and aid programs to the belligerent Arab states in general. Please note that the figures are Soviet export list prices and not the estimated dollar cost of reproducing this equipment in the US; the latter may be considerably higher.

The Cost to the USSR of the Arab-Israeli Wars

The Cost of the Current War

1. Preliminary analysis on the cost to the USSR of the recent Arab-Israeli war indicates that it will run about $1 billion if Moscow replaces all the Arab war losses.* This is over twice the estimated cost of the 1967 Arab-Israeli War.

2. Arab equipment losses are estimated to be at least

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Valued at Soviet export prices this equipment would be worth about $500 million (see Table 1). This estimate does not include a value for ammunition expended, or captured and destroyed artillery, armored personnel carriers, vehicles, quartermaster supplies and surface-to-air missile equipment because information on these losses is not yet available. When the final tally of war losses is compiled it will probably approach the $900 million level.

* These are Soviet export list prices and not the estimated dollar cost of reproducing this equipment in the US.

4. Arab manpower losses, along with their general need for technical training will necessitate additional Soviet assistance. An increase in the number of Arab military personnel undergoing training in the USSR is expected. Additional Soviet military advisors probably will be stationed in Egypt and Syria. The costs involved may run as high as $100 million over the next few years.

5. Support to military related industries and for petroleum products will not be major factors in the Soviet cost. and e
